SKILLS FOR SECOND CHANCE EDUCATION
STUDENTS"

The EMO2C in the heart of Italy - Rome

EMO2C second transnational project meeting occurred on the 3-4th of November in the heart of Italy, Rome. Partners from Greece, the Netherlands, Austria, Italy, Spain and Lithuania gathered in order to overview the progress of the project and develop further strategies for the upcoming results.

What happened during the meeting?

Igor Vitale, psychologist, international speaker and expert has conducted a presentation on psychometrics, which was been of great help in establishing the strategy for efficient self-assessment. All partners did a brainstorming and were able to come to wonderful conclusions. Afterwards, partners visited a dissemination event, where not only did they gather new experience, but also shared information about the project.

"Teachers capacity to manage correctly emotion is determinant for the students success, to keep them engaged in the lectures and build their future career. In fact, negative emotions connected with the experience of being evaluated in schools could reduce their motivation to study. For this reason we are working on the project EMO2C. Our next step will be to create a Self-Assessment tool which will help teachers to understand their emotional strengths and weaknesses and prevent school dropout," - Igor Vital commented.
